New York State law allows the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) to interpret provisions of The Code of the Town of Ontario, Chapter 150, Zoning. This application is an interpretive appeal of a decision of the Code Enforcement Officer (CEO). The applicant must prove to the ZBA that the CEO’s decision in an action under the provisions of Chapter 150 was incorrect. If the decision of the CEO is upheld, and the applicant then requests a variance of the provisions of Chapter 150, then the appropriate variance must be on file.

Applicant Comments – describe applicant’s interpretation (please type or print)

___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________
___________________________________________________________________________________

Do ZBA members have permission to inspect your property? YES NO

Initial

Initial

 Application fee is non-refundable

(Applicant’s signature) (Date)

State of New York, County of Wayne; sworn to me this day of , 20 .

(Notary Public)